

The Texas Gulf Coast Bull Terrier Club Rescue Report – March 12, 2010

Bullies in Need:

Feather is a sweet little gal about 2 years old. She is having fun in foster care with bully Little John! Joni says she sprints out of her crate in the morning, runs around the yard, then races back inside to see what's for breakfast. After all that excitement, she's ready to take a nap! Sweet Feather can't get enough hugs and belly rubs! She is heartworm positive and her treatment can begin in a week or two, but she appears healthy otherwise.

Sasha is about 5 years old and a total doll. She is wonderful around the house and friendly with humans, but she will not tolerate other dogs, so needs to be kept firmly on leash when out walking. Sasha is not a great one for strenuous exercise, much preferring the comfort of the couch! She too can start heartworm treatment soon.

Can you help an old boy in his Golden Years? This guy's owner has had a bit of bad luck befall him, so he is asking if anyone out there would be willing to give his beloved Epstein a roof over his head until he gets back on his feet. Epstein is a male Bull Terrier, about 11-12 years old, very friendly to other dogs and kids. We don't know about cats. He basically just enjoys hanging out with the family and snoozing. A low maintenance bloke but still full of Bully goodness! I can say from experience that "old Bullies are the best!" Can anybody out there help a bully friend in need? Epstein is currently in the Dallas area, but we could get him brought to Houston if someone can offer him a temporary home.

Epstein – he's the good looking one at the front!

Another request for help is from our friends at Houston Pet Placement League. They are looking to rehome this great guy, Mullet! Aged around 2 yrs, he is very gentle, he asks you before he jumps up on you for loving, and is super in a crate. All he really wants is attention and love. He's not destructive (but will play with a toy until it falls apart!) Would do great with sturdy kids over 10 yrs, but no cats or small furies! Get in touch with us if you want more information on this super lad.
